Amateur Baseball.
The Lions and Emeralds played one of the best games at Brightwood yesterday morning that have recently been given. Nearly 2,000 people witnessed the game, among them being several members of the Washington team. The Lions won by one run. "Honey" Harrison's home run in the ninth inning, with two men on base, was what did the trick. Early in the season Harrison was offered a position on the Memphis team, but could not accept.

The Braves defeated the Harlems, of Georgetown, yesterday by a score of 18 to 9. They would like to get on a game with either the Washington Stars or the Senators.

The Soldiers and Sailors Again.
The Bureau of Engineering and Training will cross bats with the Army and Navy team at National Park this afternoon. Captain and Beach and Buckingham and McManis will very likely be the opposing batteries.

Plate Printer Moore Dead.
Mr. Frank Moore, one of the best known plate printers in the city, died at his mother's residence No. 931 1-2 New York avenue northwest, about 3 o'clock last Saturday afternoon. His death was the result of injuries received while employed in the Coast and Geodetic Survey, where he was in charge of the plate printing for the past twenty-two years. Mr. Moore is said to have been expert in his business and was very popular among his fellow workmen as well as all who knew him.

People leaving the city for their summer vacation cannot afford to leave THE TIMES. It will be mailed to any address and will continue to be the best local newspaper in Washington.

Chicago, Ill., July 28.—Adrian Canaburison Anson, an old man and a good man standing this afternoon like a modern Colossus of Rhodes with one foot on first base and the other in right field saw a vision of a second defeat from Washington pass before his heated imagination.

In that one brief moment he grew so old that three life insurance companies cancelled risks on his life on account of the expiration of age limit. They would take no chance on a centenarian.

The game was so close that Griffith, who went in with the fierce moustache of a Cuban insurgent, came out with as clean a face as though the barber shops were kept open on Sunday.

With the score six to five against them, the Senators filled the bases and but one man was out. The Colts were standing on the brink of a terrible catastrophe. A safe hit and another terrible career would have been charged up against H. H. Holmes.

AND CROOKS STRUCK OUT.
Crooks seemed to hit the ball so badly that his ears bobbed up and down like a Jack rabbit in mad flight. He swung at it three times, and each time left huge cavities in the air that three spectators had to hold Kittridge to keep him from falling through out of sight.

Then Schebeck grunted the stick. He went to the plate with an expression that said "Detroit papers please copy" on his merry face. He leaned far out across the plate, and with a shriek that said "Curfew shall not ring to-night," caught the ball where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers unite to form the Ohio.

The ball soared up in the air like a sky-lark and came down a crow into Dahlen's hands. The Colts took a bag of peanuts on themselves.

Contentious Boyd pitched for the visitors. He swished his arm back until his elbow scratched his shoulder blade. Then he let loose an in-shoot that the Chicago batters rushed after with the despair of a short-armed man trying to get a second piece of chicken at a banqueting house.

But with their usual senatorial courtesy the Washingtonians did for the Colts what they could not do for themselves. With two out in the first inning Lange whacked the ball for three bases. Anson sent up a fly to Abner and he let it roll over the ends of his fingers. Dahlen made a hit and Anson scored.

HOW FOUR RINS WERE SCORDED.
The next inning was worse. Kittridge was safe on Joyce's fumble. Griffith made a lucky hit just over first. Everett, who had been trying to bat hand, wielded the stick to the way that was natural to him, and beat out a line. Wilmut whacked a two-bagger in a line with first, scoring two runs and two more came in on long flies to the outfield.

That ended Chicago's run getting. They wanted to make the game sure, and for the next six innings tried harder to score than a small boy trying to get out of going to school.

But Boyd got his second wind, and base hits got scarcer than friends to a man on his uppers.

In the fourth inning Joyce was the first man up. He was erratic, to put the thing mildly, and called a ball instead of a strike.

At that point, but the other innings were played for the delectation of the spectators. Boyd started out to win his own game. In the fifth, the Colts were frightened. He led off with a single to center and Hasmann sacrificed.

Selbach sent a long fly to Lange. Bill's hands were floppy under the like a year of grain scops. He didn't wait to lift his hat to the crowd, but sent the ball whirling to third. It got there just ahead of Boyd. And the band played sweetly.

TAILENDERS BEAT CHAMPIONS.
Bunched Hits in the Third Won for the Colts.

Louisville, Ky., July 28.—Louisville won today's game by bunched hits in the third inning. The fielding was wild, but Weyhing kept Baltimore's hits well scattered, and the numerous errors netted only two runs for the visitors.

The managers of the Louisville club were feeling good today, because they have just paid the last of the club's indebtedness to the National League treasury, taking up a note for $1,900, the balance of $4,000 borrowed last season. Attendance, 2,300.

WHAT A WEEK HAS DONE.

Spiders Are at the Front and the Others Are Vibrating.
The race for the National League pennant is as close and interesting as it was one week ago Saturday evening. The Clevelanders then were the leaders, but the tail-enders dislodged them on the following Sunday, and Baltimore winning from Cincinnati went to the front.

The Spiders had Washington on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday as opponents, and by the most marvelous streak of luck, won the three games, although the Senators had more earned runs in every game than had the Forest City. With these victories Cleveland secured a good lead, as Baltimore went down and the Pirates came up.

After Washington the Spiders tackled Boston, and kept up their lead in first place, and on Saturday evening, they won from Cincinnati and went to the front.

Washington had a rough time of it. Without a really first-class pitcher, and playing ragged ball in the field, the Senators were down in eleven places from Thursday evening until Saturday. On the latter day they trounced Anson's Colts, and by the Brooklyn defeating the Browns went back to tenth place again.

There is less than 100 points between Cleveland and New York, the latter team being in ninth place. The Spiders, inspired by their splendid showing, increased their percentage fifteen points. It is extremely doubtful, however, whether they can keep up the rate they are now traveling, because they are not the best kind of players away from home.

The Pirates are also going at a merry pace and Manager Mack is exerting every effort to land his band in first place. They really made a better showing than the Spiders. A week ago they were third with 88.3 percentage, while on Saturday night they were twenty points better.

Buck Ewing's Reds have maintained their place, although they fell off twelve points.

The Orioles were restless, so to speak, flying here and there and on Thursday morning rested on the fourth round, with only 57.7 percentage. On Saturday they went one round better, closing a most disastrous week with a percentage of 58.9.

The Bostonians also vibrated. Starting the week in sixth place they finished in fourth, having 57.5 per cent to their credit, one point less than the week before.

Anson's Colts are at the same place, although they were down on eighth round. The Phillies are two points less than a week ago, but maintain their position.

The Browns went down one point, while the Colonels increased their percentage four points.

Baseball Notes.

Gus Weyhing is rounding to once more. Boyd did fairly well against the Chicago. Miller is doing most of the catching for the Browns.

Abner's batting eye seems to be getting all right. Young Wilson received his first severe drubbing.

It was a fierce battle with the stick at Cincinnati. Dwyer, it appears, does not have control of the ball.

Three double plays had much to do with the Colts' victory. The wall at Cleveland was audible on the capital steps.

The cry of "Umpire" comes from the city of Von Der Ahe. McGuire is doing more catching than any other league backstop.

"Roaring Bill" Hassman made his re-appearance at Chicago. This week will see the Eastern clubs playing among themselves.

Cleveland had to use three pitchers to stay the slugging of the Reds. Brodie is certainly a great outfielder. He gets everything that comes close.

Louisville must be making money when the officials can pay a note of $1,900. To-morrow the Senators will be at home, and the cranks will no doubt be out in force.

The Senators come home standing just where they did when they went away—Consolation. Sunday is the Hoo-doo of the Spiders, having won but two games this season on their home grounds.

Buck Ewing knew what he was getting when he secured Eddie Burke, the discarded Giant.

Esper was hit for four earned runs in one inning by the Colonels, and that was enough to win.

The profits of a 13,000 crowd is a good thing every seventh day three months during a season.

The Bridgeports have the distinguished consideration of the Senator who is now standing on the tenth round of the ladder.

Down the Line.

Johnny Heisel has had hard luck with his horses. Halle Day has been on the skids ever since he came from the West.

Willie Ham went to Philadelphia last night. He will be gone for several days. Willie is particularly waiting for the message which will give him permission to ride for Mr. Lorrillard.

R. Brown, the light-weight boy, who was riding here last year, is here again. He is engaged to ride for Knappe and Kennedy. His riding weight is ninety pounds, and he can give the best of the light-weights a finish.

Forest seems to have gone back very much. He did not finish Saturday with his usual dash and swing.

A race for gentleman riders at the St. Asaph track would draw out a large crowd. These events have always been great favorites with Washingtonians. There are lots of gentleman riders who would give anything for a chance to show off their jockeyship.

Frank Weir has been in very fair luck. He always does get a piece of the money and Saturday he gathered in two events. The boys like to see Weir win, as he is a great favorite with everyone at both tracks.
